Mass grave for the Oglala Sioux Tribal members murdered at Wounded Knee on December 29, 1890. Northwestern Photo Co. -United States Library of Congress Prints and Photographs Division, Reproduction Number: LC-USZ62-44458

December 29, 2020 marks the 130th anniversary of the Wounded Knee Massacre on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. South Dakota.

Time should not diminish its memory as it was only one of numerous acts of terrorism and genocide committed against our people.

Just as we celebrate Christmas in honor of the birth of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ (At least for many of us believers and not so politically correct folks) and with the New Year right around the corner let us take a moment to remember and honor our people murdered at Wounded Knee, South Dakota.

On that infamous day, December 29, 1890 it is estimated that 275 Lakota Sioux men, women and children were murdered with hundreds more wounded and 25 U.S. soldiers killed and for no other reason than fear! Fear of the "Ghost Dance" was the reason given as if one could justify the incomprehensible murdering and maining of so many innocent people. Why, because of the political policies at that period in time.

After all what more could the "Indians" want? The Government was going to take care of them as long as the rivers flow and the grass shall grow.

can Indian Movement (AIM) leaders, Denis Banks and Russel Means led an armed takeover and occupation of Wounded Knee.

The protest followed the failure of an effort of the Oglala Sioux Civil Rights Organization (OSCRO) to impeach tribal president Richard Wilson, whom they accused of corruption.

The armed occupancy of Wounded Knee which received national attention, ended after 71-days when Lawrence "Buddy" Lamont, a local Oglala Lakota, was killed by a shot from a government sniper on April 26, 1973. He was buried on the site in a Sioux ceremony. A U.S. marshal was also shot and paralyzed.

After Lamont's death, tribal elders called an end to the occupation. Knowing the young man and his mother from the reservation, many Oglala were greatly sorrowed by his death. Both sides reached an agreement on May 5, 1973 to disarm.

Over 200 federal armed law enforcement were joined by local law enforcement and Wilson's private militia, The Guardians of the Oglala Nation (GOON Squad).

With the decision made to end the protest, many Oglala Lakota began to leave Wounded Knee under the cover of darkness walking out through the federal agents lines.

The stand at Wounded Knee electrified American Indians, who were inspired by the sight of their people standing in defiance of the government which had so often mistreated them.

Many American Indian supporters traveled to Wounded Knee to join the protest. At the time there was widespread public sympathy for the goals of the occupation, as Americans were becoming more aware of longstanding issues of injustice related to American Indians.

AIM leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means were indicted on charges related to the events, but their case was dismissed by the federal court for prosecutorial misconduct, and upheld on appeal.

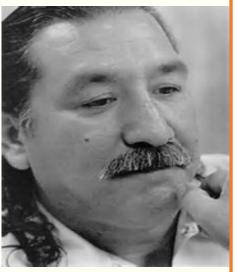

With the support of the U.S. Government, Wilson stayed in office and in 1974 was re-elected amid charges of intimidation, voter fraud, and other abuses.

The rate of violence climbed on the reservation as conflict opened between the political factions during the following three years; More than 60 opponents of Wilson's tribal government died violently during those years, including Pedro Bissonette, director of the Oglala Sioux Civil Rights Organization. Traditional tribal members blamed Wilson's private militia, Guardians of the Oglala Nation (GOONs). Shortly following the Wounded Knee standoff 21-year old Leonard Peltier, a young AIM leader was asked by traditional Indian people at Pine Ridge, to help protect them from being targeted for violence by Wilson's tribal GOONs. He went to their aid never to return home to his wife and children. On June 26, 1975 two FBI agents in unmarked cars followed a pickup truck onto the Jumping Bull ranch. The families immediately became alarmed and feared an attack. Shots were fired and a shoot-out ensued. More than 150 federal agents, GOONS, and law enforcement officers surrounded the ranch occupied by 40 Indians.

When the shoot-out ended FBI Special Agents, Jack R. Coler and Ronald A. Williams and American Indian, Joseph Stuntz lay dead. Stuntz's death has never been investigated, nor has anyone ever been charged in connection with his death.

Leonard Peltier was convicted for the deaths of the two FBI agents killed during a shoot-out on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

He was sentenced to life in prison where he remains as a political prisoner to this day.

Yet, 60 Oglala Sioux died at the hands of the GOONS before and after that infamous day and no one was ever investigated, charged or prosecuted. The tribal GOONS were supported with guns, ammunition and funds by the FBI.

Numerous legal doubts have been raised over Peltier's guilt and the fairness of his trial, based on allegations and inconsistencies regarding the FBI and prosecution's handling of this case.

Even former U.S. Attorney General, Ramsey Clark served pro bono as one of Peltier's lawyers and has aided in filing a series of appeals on Peltier's behalf. In all appeals, the conviction and sentence have been affirmed by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The sad irony is that 130-years have passed since the December 29, 1890 Wounded Knee Massacre and 47-years since the 1973 armed protect South Dakota AND very little if anything has changed for the American Indians.
