Larry Elder Seek California Governorship

ELITIST SOCIALIST DEMOCRATS EMPLOY RACIST TACTICS

Black Man Not allowed to Leave Plantation

MY VIEW by Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.,

Laurence "Larry" Allen Elder was born April 27, 1952 in Los Angeles and grew up in the city's Pico-Union and South Central areas.

His father Randolph (1915-2011), who was born in Athens, Georgia, was a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps during World War II and moved to California from Georgia after the war during the Second Great Migration.

After working as a janitor at Nabisco, Randolph Elder opened a cafe in Pico-Union around 1962. Following his father's passing in 2011, Larry Elder recalled: "Gruff and blunt, my dad often intimidated my two brothers and me. But we never doubted his love or his commitment to his family." In 2013, Elder and his brother Kirk accepted a Congressional Gold Medal from U.S. Representative Dana Rohrabacher on their father's behalf.^[1]

Larry Elder's mother Viola (née Conley, 1924-2006) was originally from Toney, Alabama. She was a clerical worker for the United States Department of War during World War II.^[4]

An honors student who also took advanced courses at Fairfax High School, Elder graduated from Crenshaw High School in 1970 and earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science in 1974 from Brown University. He then earned a Juris Doctor from University of Michigan Law School in 1977.^[5]

Elder is an American conservative talk radio host, author, and attorney who hosts The Larry Elder Show. The show began as a local program on Los Angeles radio station KABC in 1993 and ran until 2008, followed by a second run on KABC from 2010 to 2014. The show is nationally syndicated, first through ABC Radio Networks from 2002 to 2007 and then Salem Media Group since 2015.

Elder has written nonfiction books and a nationally syndicated column through Creators Syndicate.

Elder is currently a candidate for governor of California, running as a Republican to replace Gavin Newsom in the 2021 California gubernatorial recall election.

The clearest sign things are not going well for Democratic California Gov. Gavin Newsom is that his boosters in the media are losing it. They have taken to accusing his black gubernatorial challenger of being a "white supremacist."

No one ever said desperation was pretty.

MSNBC conspiracy theorist Joy Reid, who has a history of writing extremely bigoted blog posts and then lying about them, said that "it's ironic" that the leading Republican candidate to replace Newsom, conservative columnist and radio host Larry Elder, is "a black man."

Reid is not alone in accusing Elder of being a crypto-klanman. Los Angeles Times columnist Erika Smith wrote an entire piece recently titled, "Larry Elder is the Black face of white supremacy. You've been warned."

Smith continues, claiming she learned a long time ago to ignore people such as Elder, people who are "skinfock" but "not necessarily kinfock."

Anyway, as if these racist scribbles weren't evidence enough that Newsom's supporters are deeply nervous about losing the governorship, recent polling data also show that nearly half of likely voters in California support recalling the current governor. Polling data also show Elder leading the race to replace Newsom.

Black Lives Matter Los Angeles co-founder Melina Abdullah says of Elder and his chances of becoming the next resident of the governor's mansion, "He is a danger, a clear and present danger." (If this isn't an endorsement to vote for Elder I don't know what is.)

If anything is ironic, it is that these leftists would slander a self-made black man, the son of a U.S. Marine, in order to prop up the ultra-wealthy, white Democratic beneficiary of the Getty Oil fortune, who went from operating a chain of wineries, nightclubs, and cafés to becoming a career politician at the age of 29.

In fact, it almost smacks of white supremacy.

One might even say of Reid, Kamlager, Abdullah, and Smith that "even people of color can be influenced by white supremacist narratives and fall victim to it."

‘Coming full circle’: Native tapped to lead national parks

KALLE BENALLIE · INDIAN COUNTRY TODAY

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

For the first time, a Native American may become the director of the National Park Service. President Joe Biden nominated Charles F. “Chuck” Sams III Wednesday and will be considered by the U.S. Senate. If confirmed, he will be the 19th permanent director of the National Park Service.

A National Park Service director was last confirmed by the Senate during the Obama Administration.

The park service is a bureau of the U.S. Department of the Interior where Secretary Deb Haaland, Laguna Pueblo, made history by becoming the first Native American cabinet secretary.

“The diverse experience that Chuck brings to the National Park Service will be an incredible asset as we work to conserve and protect our national parks to make them more accessible for everyone...the outdoors are for everyone, and we have an obligation to protect them for generations to come,” she said in a statement.

The National Park Service oversees more than 131,000 square miles of parks, monuments, battlefields and other landmarks. It employs approximately 20,000 people in permanent, temporary and seasonal jobs, according to its website.

Sams is Cayuse and Walla Walla, of the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. He previously served as the tribe’s interim executive director earlier this year.

Kat Brigham, the tribal nation’s board of trustees chairman, congratulated Sams on the nomination.

“This is a historical moment for America and is a monumental milestone for tribal people throughout Indian Country. We applaud Mr. Sams on his nomination and are optimistic to see his leadership continuing to conserve and protect the precious resources within the National Park Service,” Brigham said. “Mr. Sams is aware of how important it is to take care of the land for today and future generations.”

The U.S. Navy veteran currently serves as a council member to the Northwest Power and Conservation Council, which he was appointed by Oregon Gov. Kate Brown.

He has “worked in state and Tribal governments and the non-profit natural resource and conservation management fields for more than 25 years,” said the Interior in a statement.

His long list of roles, in addition to interim director, include:

- President and chief executive officer of the Indian Country Conservancy
- Executive director for the Umatilla Tribal Community Foundation
- National director of the Tribal & Native Lands Program for the Trust for Public Land
- Executive director for the Columbia Slough Watershed Council
- Executive director for the Community Energy Project
- President and chief executive officer for the Earth Conservation Corps

Holly Cook Macarro, Red Lake Ojibwe, partner

at Spirit Rock Consulting LLC and political commentator, called the nomination ironic like Secretary Haaland’s nomination because national parks are lost Native lands that have been affected by “treaty violations, theft and other forms.”

But Sams’ possible leadership of the National Parks Service “once again feels like things are coming full circle.”

She said that the youth could be significantly impacted by having visual representation of a position they might want to obtain some day. Tribal governments and spiritual leaders may also benefit from his appointment.

“There’s someone on the very top who understands the tribal perspective and is going to bring it to the table in a way that we haven’t seen before,” Macarro said.

She cites two other non-traditional appointments: Robert Anderson, Bois Forte Band of the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe, who was tapped as the solicitor of the Interior and Janie Hipp, Chickasaw, who was appointed as USDA General Counsel.

Governor Newsom's decision to close the Barstow Veterans Home with an annual budget of $22 million and spend $150 million for cash disbursements to illegal immigrants right before Memorial Day is one of the single most disgusting acts ever made by a sitting American politician.

The American Indian Reporter

POLITICALLY
INCORRECT AND PROUD OF IT!

The American Indian Reporter is the only American Indian newspaper in the United States of America that provides the Tribal community with a basic conservative view.

And although the majority of the tribes lean towards a more liberal view they tend to practice a conservative ideology with their policies, values and traditions.

In way of example, tribal membership at the very minimum is restricted to lineal descent. Tribalism and Collectivism are not synonymous. Other examples is that most tribal governments require a photo ID to vote in any tribal election and on many reservation, villages and rancherias access is restricted by tribal security.

In addition, there are very few tribal members that do not support the second amendment of the Constitution, the right to bear arms. And yes, many tribes have restrictions as to where guns can be used, which is a reasonable policy.

Tribal sovereignty, Freedom of religion, Indian Child Welfare Act and tribal jurisdiction over tribal lands and self-governance are all concepts supported by the conservative ideology.

That said, the American Indian Reporter has not been able to publish a monthly printed copy of the newspaper for over a year due to the covid-19 pandemic which caused many of our advertisers and sponsors to cancel their subscriptions.

With the return of business and the work place we would very much like to publish the FREE monthly American Indian Reporter. However, we do not have the financial resources to cover the printing and distribution cost to make this happen without your support.

Thank you for your consideration, Ernie C. Salgado, Jr., Publisher/Editor
