New York City, USA

September 11, 2001

On September 11, 2001 the United States of America was attacked by the Islamic terrorist group called al-Qaeda. The attack was a series of four coordinated terrorist attacks. The attacks killed 2,996 people and injured over 6,000 others and caused over $3 trillion in total costs.

Four passenger airliners operated by two major U.S. passenger air carriers (United Airlines and American Airlines), all of which departed from airports on the north-eastern United States bound for California, were hijacked by nineteen al-Qaeda Muslim terrorist.

Over the past twenty year we have been is a no-win war in Afghanistan.

As absurd as it is the Socialist Robert’s Supreme Court ruled that American troop must provide the Muslim terrorist with Maranda and Due Process Rights. The same court has ruled that American Indians do not have Constitutional rights with tribal governments. Something is incredible wrong here in America.

We have elected anti American Muslims to congress and a president that not only supported the Muslim but, has a half brother that is a member of Hamas. He also gave the Muslim Brotherhood millions of dollars worth of military weapons. And he gave Iran over half a billion dollars in cash.

And his shameful Benghazi disaster

Larry Elder Seek California Governorship

ELITIST SOCIALIST DEMOCRATS EMPLOY RACIST TACTICS

Black Man Not allowed to Leave Plantation

MY VIEW by Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.,

Sources: Internet News, From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia
Contributor Franklin Motte, Moreno Valley CA

Laurence "Larry" Allen Elder was born April 27, 1952 in Los Angeles and grew up in the city's Pico-Union and South Central areas.

His father Randolph (1915–2011), who was born in Athens, Georgia, was a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps during World War II and moved to California from Georgia after the war during the Second Great Migration.

After working as a janitor at Nabisco, Randolph Elder opened a cafe in Pico-Union around 1962. Following his father's passing in 2011, Larry Elder recalled: "Gruff and blunt, my dad often intimidated my two brothers and me. But we never doubted his love or his commitment to his family." In 2013, Elder and his brother Kirk accepted a Congressional Gold Medal from U.S. Representative Dana Rohrabacher on their father's behalf!

Larry Elder's mother Viola (née Conley, 1924–2006) was originally from Toney, Alabama. She was a clerical worker for the United States Department of War during World War II.

An honors student who also took advanced courses at Fairfax High School, Elder graduated from Crenshaw High School in 1970 and earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science in 1974 from Brown University. He then earned a Juris Doctor from University of Michigan Law School in 1977.

Elder is an American conservative talk radio host, author, and attorney who hosts The Larry Elder Show. The show began as a local program on Los Angeles radio station KABC in 1993 and ran until 2008, followed by a second run on KABC from 2010 to 2014. The show is nationally syndicated, first through ABC Radio Networks from 2002 to 2007 and then Salem Media Group since 2015.

Elder has written nonfiction books and a nationally syndicated column through Creators Syndicate.

Elder is currently a candidate for governor of California, running as a Republican to replace Gavin Newsom in the 2021 California gubernatorial recall election.

The clearest sign things are not going well for Democratic California Gov. Gavin Newsom is that his boosters in the media are losing it. They have taken to accusing his black gubernatorial challenger of being a "white supremacist."

No one ever said desperation was pretty.

MSNBC conspiracy theorist Joy Reid, who has a history of writing extremely bigoted blog posts and then lying about them, said that "it's ironic" that the leading Republican candidate to replace Newsom, conservative columnist and radio host Larry Elder, is "a black man."

Reid is not alone in accusing Elder of being a crypto-klanisman. Los Angeles Times columnist Erika Smith wrote an entire piece recently titled, "Larry Elder is the Black face of white supremacy. You've been warned."

Smith continues, claiming she learned a long time ago to ignore people such as Elder, people who are "skinfolk" but "not necessarily kinfolk."

Anyway, as if these racist scribblings weren't evidence enough that Newsom's supporters are deeply nervous about losing the governorship, recent polling data also show that nearly half of likely voters in California support recalling the current governor. Polling data also show Elder leading the race to replace Newsom.

"What could be more racist than the dogma that a person of a certain skin color must hold certain beliefs, or else?"

Black Lives Matter Los Angeles co-founder Melina Abdullah says of Elder and his chances of becoming the next resident of the governor's mansion, "He is a danger, a clear and present danger." (If this isn't an endorsement to vote for Elder I don't know what is.)

If anything is ironic, it is that these leftists would slander a self-made black man, the son of a U.S. Marine, in order to prop up the ultra-wealthy, white Democratic beneficiary of the Getty Oil fortune, who went from operating a chain of wineries, nightclubs, and cafés to becoming a career politician at the age of 29.

In fact, it almost smacks of white supremacy.

One might even say of Reid, Kamlager, Abdullah, and Smith that "even people of color can be influenced by white supremacist narratives and fall victim to it."

States, cities, farmers and others have diversified their water sources over the years, helping soften the blow of the upcoming cuts. But federal officials Monday, August 16, 2021 declaration makes clear that conditions have intensified faster than scientists predicted in 2019, when some states in the Colorado River basin agreed to give up shares of water to maintain levels at Lake Mead.

"The August 16, 2021 announcement is a recognition that the hydrology that was planned for years ago — but we hoped we would never see — is here," said Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Camille Touton.

Lake Mead was formed by building the Hoover Dam in the 1930s. "The (August 16, 2021) announcement is a recognition that the hydrology that was planned for years ago — but we hoped we would never see — is here," said Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Camille Touton.

Lake Mead was formed by building the Hoover Dam in the 1930s. It is one of several man-made reservoirs that store water from the Colorado River, which supplies household water, irrigation for farms and hydro-power to Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and parts of Mexico.

But water levels at Lake Mead and Lake Powell, the river's two largest reservoirs, have been falling for years and faster than experts predicted. Scorching temperatures and less melting snow in the spring have reduced the amount of water flowing from the Rocky Mountains, where the river originates before it snakes 1,450 miles (2,334 kilometers) southwest and into the Gulf of California.

"We're at a moment where we're reckoning with how we continue to flourish with less water, and it's very painful," said Sarah Porter, director of the Kyl Center for Water Policy at Arizona State University.

HOW IS THE RIVER WATER SHARED?

How will the Water Shortage affect the American Indian Water Rights?

INDIAN-COUNTRY-TODAY The Associated Press

When states face water cuts

Lake Powell is divided up through legal agreements among the seven Colorado River basin states, the federal government, Mexico and others. The agreements determine how much water each gets, when cuts are triggered and the order in which the parties have to sacrifice some of their supply.

Under a 2019 drought contingency plan, Arizona, Nevada, California and Mexico agreed to give up shares of their water to maintain water levels at Lake Mead. The voluntary measures weren't enough to prevent the shortage declaration.

WHO DOES LAKE MEAD SERVE?

Lake Mead supplies water to millions of people in Arizona, California, Nevada and Mexico.

Cuts for 2022 are triggered when predicted water levels fall below a certain threshold — 1,075 feet above sea level, or 40 percent capacity. Hydrologists predict that by January, the reservoir will drop to 1,066 feet.

Further rounds of cuts are triggered when projected levels sink to 1,050, 1,045 and 1,025 feet.

Eventually, some city and industrial water users could be affected.

Lake Powell's levels also are falling, threatening the roughly 5 billion kilowatt hours of electricity generated each year at the Glen Canyon Dam.

Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming get water from tributaries and other reservoirs that feed into Lake Powell. Water from three reservoirs in those states has been drained to maintain water levels at Lake Powell and protect the electric grid powered by the Glen Canyon Dam.

WHICH STATES WILL BE AFFECTED BY THE CUTS?

In the U.S., Arizona will be hardest hit and lose 18 percent of its share from the river next year, or 512,000 acre-feet of water. That's around 8 percent of the state's total water use.

An acre-foot is enough water to supply one to two households a year.

Nevada will lose about 7 percent of its allocation, or 21,000 acre-feet of water. But it will not feel the shortage largely because of conservation efforts.

California is spared from immediate cuts because it has more senior water rights than Arizona and Nevada.

Mexico will see a reduction of roughly 5 percent, or 80,000 acre-feet.

WHO IN THOSE STATES WILL SEE THEIR WATER SUPPLY CUT?

Farmers in central Arizona, who are among the state's largest producers of livestock, dairy, alfalfa, wheat and barley, will bear the brunt of the cuts. Their allocation comes from water deemed "extra" by the agency that supplies water to much of the region, making them the first to lose it during a shortage.

As a result, the farmers will likely need to fallow land — as many already have in recent years because of persisting drought — and rely even more on groundwater, switch to water-efficient crops and find other ways to use less water.

Water suppliers have planned for the shortage declaration by diversifying and conserving their water supply, such as by storing water in underground basins. Still, water cuts make it harder to plan for the future.

The Central Arizona Project, which supplies water to Arizona's major cities, will no longer bank river water or replenish some groundwater systems next year because of the cuts.

"It's a historic moment where drought and climate change are at our door," said Chuck Cullom of the Central Arizona Project.

Cities such as Las Vegas, Phoenix and Tucson, and Native American tribes are shielded from the first round of cuts.

CAN THE DECLINE OF LAKE MEAD BE REVERSED?

Water levels at the reservoir have been falling since 1999 due to the dry spell enveloping the West and increased water demand. With weather patterns expected to worsen, experts say the reservoir may never be full again.

Though Lake Mead and Lake Powell could theoretically be refilled, planning for a hotter, drier future with less river water would be more prudent, said Porter of Arizona State University.

'Coming full circle': Native tapped to lead national parks

KALLE BENALLIE · INDIAN COUNTRY TODAY

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

For the first time, a Native American may become the director of the National Park Service.

Charles F. "Chuck" Sams III will be considered by the U.S. Senate. If confirmed, he will be the 19th permanent director of the National Park Service.

A National Park Service director was last confirmed by the Senate during the Obama Administration.

The park service is a bureau of the U.S. Department of the Interior where Secretary Deb Haaland, Laguna Pueblo, made history by becoming the first Native American cabinet secretary.

"The diverse experience that Chuck brings to the National Park Service will be an incredible asset as we work to conserve and protect our national parks to make them more accessible for everyone...the outdoors are for everyone, and we have an obligation to protect them for generations to come," she said in a statement.

The National Park Service oversees more than 131,000 square miles of parks, monuments, battlefields and other landmarks. It employs approximately 20,000 people in permanent, temporary and seasonal jobs, according to its website.

Sams is Cayuse and Walla Walla, of the Confed-erated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. He previously served as the tribe's interim executive director earlier this year.

Kat Brigham, the tribal nation's board of trustees chairman, congratulated Sams on the nomination.

The U.S. Navy veteran currently serves as a council member to the Northwest Power and Conservation Council, which he was appointed by Oregon Gov. Kate Brown.

He has "worked in state and Tribal governments and the non-profit natural resource and conservation management fields for more than 25 years," said the Interior in a statement.

Bill Maher Rips liberals after Afghanistan disaster

Blaze media August 27, 2021 * Contributed by Franklin Motte, Moreno Valley CA

Comedian Bill Maher delivered a stinging message for liberals on his HBO show Friday, August 27, 2021 explaining the "lesson of Afghanistan" is that actual oppression does not, for the most part, exist in America, despite claims from progressives.

Maher began his closing segment by relaying sentiment from immigrants who move to America, "All you do is bh about and bad-mouth your own country, but if you knew about the country I came from, you'd stop shing on your own."

Then, after some obligatory bashing of some conservatives for being "overly sentimental" about America, Maher tore into liberals for having "gone too far in the other direction," "under-romanticizing America," and not having "perspective" about their lives in America.

"I'm sorry your professor said something you didn't like. That won't be a problem with the Taliban because you're not allowed to go to school," Maher mocked. "In Saudi Arabia, grown women can be jailed for doing the kind of things we think of as routine without the permission of a male guardian. China rounds you up if you're the wrong religion and puts you in camps."

After listing off many other injustices in other countries, Maher put into perspective why Afghan mothers were handing their babies to U.S. soldiers, trusting America with their lives.

"If you think America is irredeemable, turn on the news or get a passport and a ticket on one of those sketchy airlines that puts its web address on the plane. There's a reason Afghan mothers are handing their babies to us," Maher said.

Then, after telling his audience that Americans should welcome Afghan refugees into their homes, Maher excoriated liberals for thinking Americans are "bad guys."

"We're not the bad guys. Oppression is what we were trying to stop in Afghanistan," Maher said.

"We failed, but any immigrant will tell you we've largely succeeded here. And yet, the overriding thrust of current 'woke' ideology is that America is rotten to the core, irredeemably racist from the moment it was founded and so oppressive, sexist, and homophobic we can't find a host for the Oscars or Jeopardy!"

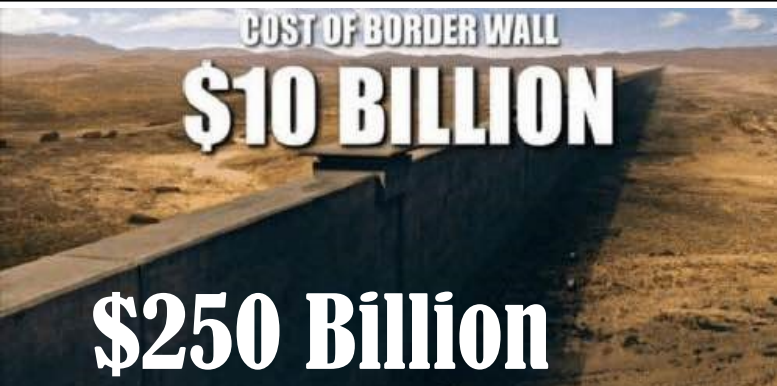

"And this is where your new Afghani (sic) room-mates that you took in will prove so valuable because they'll turn to you and say 'Have you people lost your fing minds?!' Maher continued.

"Have you ever heard of honor killings, public beheadings, throwing gay men off of roofs, arranged marriages to minors, state-sanctioned wife-beating, female genital mutilation, marriage by capture? Because we have."

Concluding his monologue, Maher said the "lesson of Afghanistan" is that real oppression — like that which exists in Afghanistan — doesn't really exist in America.

"What's the lesson of Afghanistan? Maybe it's that everyone from the giant dorm room bh-session that is the internet should take a good look at what real oppression looks like," Maher said.

"Ask your maid, ask your Uber driver, ask the Asian woman giving you a massage," he continued. "America may not be the country of your faculty lounge and Twitter dreams, but no one here tries to escape by hanging on to an airplane. No, we wait 'til we get inside the plane to fight — and only because they cut off the beverage service."

Come to the Aid of Your Country, Rez, Village, Rancheria or Area.

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country".

How many times did you have to type this in the days of typing class and laterer updated to be "keyboarding" in the 21st Century?

A more encompassing exercise was "The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog".

At 33 characters, other pangrams are shorter but harder to understand:

- (32) Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugs.
- (30) How quickly daft jumping zebras vex.
- (29) Sphinx of black quartz: judge my vow.
- (29) Quick zephyrs blow, vexing daft Jim.
- (28) Waltz, nymph, for quick jigs vex bud.

While "packing my box" might be popular in today's covid world, this is not the point of today's remarks but now that I have your attention, let's return to the opening line.

It is the time for all good men -- and women -- to come to the aid of their country. And since most do not have the capital (either celebrity or hard dollars) to exercise national notoriety, that country is right here.

It starts in your home, goes to neighborhood or apartment/condo complex, to tribe/town/city jurisdiction. From there to county, state, reservation, nation and world.

While some may spend this "sheltering-in-place" time glued to electronic entertainment devices, this is also a great time to come to the aid of your country.

In physical "home": those repairs you never get to cleaning drawers/closets/trunks/out buildings (be sure that anything that can be "repurposed" gets sent to appropriate places...kitchen waste to neighborhood chicken coops...toilet paper rolls, used containers of almost any kind to crafters or parents with children needing things to do, etc) reviewing systems (recycling, see above; transportation, budget, communications, safety) producing/"streaming" family talent sewing/crocheting/knitting (masks, baby Supplies) (Reusable Rewashable. Responsible).

This is not just a woman thing; remember how Rosie Greer recovered from his grief over Robert Kennedy's assassination. Writing the novel you've always meant to do writing (short) notes to your elected representatives, public officials, first-line responders, and all the infrastructure persons holding us together make sure all legal paperwork is in order...including voter registration and census completed plant a garden In reservation/neighborhood/apt or condo complex:

Emergency notification systems, ie green-yellow-red 8x11 paper in the window or on door system, particularly for singles and elderly. (Green for "I'm OK; yellow for - "I could use some assistance/errand"; red for "HELP").

Once a week (at least) group entertainment such as dancing in street, balcony serenades, virtual powwows, entry/hallway/common area performance which can be accomplished within 6 foot or more distancing, especially in two or more story edifices.

Identification of human resources (skills) that may be shared..."a butcher, a baker, a candlestick maker"...or more currently, a cook, a handyman or a "midnight toker"

Organize a covid-compliant graduation recognition event for those whose ceremony has been cancelled.

Determine neighborhood priorities/plan for ACTION once pandemic settles down. This would include specific commitments by individuals, time tables...a budget if necessary, but it is amazing what can be accomplished by good will and activity.

Create a community garden.

In terms of your county: Understand the difference between county and local (tribal council, city, town, regional alliance) government, especially their areas of jurisdiction.

Determine if the taxes you pay to the county are returning the service required by law or those developed by county commissioners are of benefit to the whole.

This "homework" list is enough to keep all busy for a year, so I will stop here. But before I do, please remember each jurisdiction is different. "We the People, in order to FORM a MORE PERFECT UNION" has been created at different times in our collective history and thus must be understood in that time and context.

Know the legal history of your particular place in time, not just the personalities and publicity pieces. And plant a garden.

Would you kindly fix the road I was already taxed to fix, so I'm not causing damage to the car I am taxed anually to drive, which I purchased with the income you already taxed, which sits in the driveway of my home that is highly taxed.

LABOR DAY

The American Indian Reporter is the only American Indian newspaper in the United States of America that provides the Tribal community with a basic conservative view.

And although the majority of the tribes lean towards a more liberal view they tend to practice a conservative ideology with their policies, values and traditions.

In way of example, tribal membership at the very minimum is restricted to lineal descent. Tribalism and Collectivism are not synonymous. Other examples is most tribal governments require a valid photo ID to vote in any tribal election and on many reservation, villages and rancherias access is restricted by tribal security.

In addition, there are very few tribal members that do not support the second amendment of the Constitution, the right to bear arms. And yes, many tribes have restrictions as to where guns can be used, which is a reasonable policy.

Tribal sovereignty, Freedom of religion, Indian Child Welfare Act and tribal jurisdiction over tribal lands and self-governance are all concepts supported by the conservative ideology.

That said, the American Indian Reporter has not been able to publish a monthly printed copy of the newspaper for over a year due to the covid-19 pandemic which caused many of our advertisers and sponsors to cancel their subscriptions.

With the return of business and the work place we would very much like to publish the FREE monthly American Indian Reporter. However, we do not have the financial resources to cover the printing and distribution cost to make this happen without your support. Thank you for your consideration, Ernie C. THANK YOU COMRADE BIDEN FOR THE $80 BILLION DOLLARS IN WEAPONS AND THE COMPLETE LIST OF YOUR AFGAN HELPERS. ALSO, PLEASE THANK BROTHER OBAMA FOR RELEASING OUR BROTHERS FROM GUANTANAMO BAY PRISION

TWO DAYS LATER:

If you still hate Trump after the shit show we've been living for the last six months, your committment to stupidity is impressive.

DEAR FACEBOOK. IT IS NOT YOUR JOB TO FACT CHECK OUR POSTS

YOU'RE A PLATFORM, NOT A PUBLISHER. SIGNED, EVERYONE ON FACEBOOK

Have a Great Labor Day

As I've gotten older, I've learned that pleasing everyone is impossible, but pissing everyone off is a piece of cake.

This entire “presidency” is like being tied to a chair and watching a toddler play with a loaded pistol.

The current regime that just gifted the Taliban with $80+ billion worth of military grade weapons wants your 9mm pistols

THINK ABOUT IT

Outsmarted

By men who have sex with goats.

THEY CLAIM IT RESTRICTS THEIR VOTERS FROM GETTING OUT TO VOTE

Questioning and doubting what's going on these days does not make you “anti” anything. Nor does it make you a conspiracy theorist. Actually, questioning IS and should be, the place of reason. The fact that questioning has become taboo, should, in fact, send a chill up everyone's spine.

Thank you for your service
