

Navajo Nation’s long quest for water and for the federal government to keep its promises - ends up at Supreme Court

The tribe says an 1868 treaty means the federal government has a duty to ensure its people have sufficient water on a reservation where thousands do not have running water.

NAVAJO NATION, N.M. — Her hands gripping the steering wheel, Marilyn Help-Hood gingerly drove her rugged Ford pickup truck along rutted unpaved roads, occasionally sliding in the mud, in search of one thing: water. After a bumpy 4-mile drive in the eastern reaches of the Navajo Nation reservation in Twin Lakes, New Mexico, she arrived at her local well. Helped by her son Shane, 31, Help-Hood attached a hose to a tap at the base of the well and began filling a plastic barrel in the back of her truck with the untreated water.

Help-Hood, 66, has no running water at her small one-story home and needs to regularly replenish her supplies for drinking, cooking, washing dishes and feeding her small collection of sheep, horses and dogs. Even cleaning dishes is a complicated procedure without the benefit of turning on the tap, involving two different basins of water, one for washing and one for rinsing. Trips like the one she made one day last week are a feature of life on the reservation, where thousands of the roughly 170,000 people who live there do not have running water.

FMY VIEW by Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.,

For many of you reading the caption and first four paragraphs of this article may not be aware of the inhumanities the American Indian people have suffered under the “protection” of the United States Government, which continues to this day and age. Although this article is about one tribe there are many more that are living without an adequate domestic water supply and not to mention sub-standard housing and health care.

There is not one acceptable or justifiable reason for the Navajo Nation or any other Tribal Government to be forced to go through the legal system at its highest level, the supreme court to force the U.S. Government bureaucracy to comply with the laws and Treaty Rights that are protected under the U.S. Constitution. Justice Neil Gorsuch is the only one of the six Republican Justices to support Tribal Rights. While Roberts, Thomas and Kavanaugh appear to be strongly opposed to American Indian Tribal Rights and although Alito votes with them he might take another look as Tribal Rights. Justice Amy Coney Barrett is currently on the fence on this case and hopefully she will join Gorsuch and consider Indian Law as opposed to political bias. For example, in the most resent court rulings regarding State vs Tribal jurisdiction in Oklahoma, Kavanaugh stated that if congress wanted the tribes to have that jurisdiction it would have enacted legislation. This is exactly what congress did in 1953 with P.L. 280, which has been amended to strengthen tribal jurisdiction over the 69-years. This is how tribal sovereignty, jurisdiction and treaty rights have been diminished by the supreme county over the past two centuries, by simply ignoring the laws and making their rulings to appease the political powers as well as outright conflict of interest. And once again another American Indian Tribal Government in embroiled in a shameful and costly litigation to force the U.S. Government to honor another broken promise. The Navajo Treaty states that the U.S. Government shall provide all the resources the tribe may need to become self sufficient, yet the GOP Justices cling to the absents of the word “Water” in the treaty to justify their political ideology. Regardless of a treaty or no treaty, 170,000 American citizens are living without a safe domestic water delivery system. The nitpicking and total disregard for the basic human rights of the Navajo people demand they honor the U.S. Constitution, which specifically states that all treaties with the North American Indian Tribes shall be valid and honored. It also includes the treaties made prior to the adoption of the U.S. Constitution.

This family needs grace like none other right now. They have the incredible weight of being the Pastor’s of the very church where this tragedy occurred yesterday in Nashville. Their daughter, Hallie, was one of the three students murdered. Please keep Chad & Jada Scruggs in your prayers. 🙏

California Gov. Gavin Newsom failed to publicly disclose his SVB ties while lobbying for a bailout

The Demo Twist: “It’s Not a Bailout, It’s Protecting the Depositor.”

- California Gov. Gavin Newsom reportedly had substantial personal ties to Silicon Valley Bank.
 - Reports link Newsom to the bank through personal accounts, three wineries, and his wife's charity.
- California law bans officials from influencing decisions in which they have "a financial interest."
- California Gov. Gavin Newsom lobbied the White

House and the Department of the Treasury about the pending bailout of Silicon Valley Bank, even as three of his private wineries had apparently been among the bank's clients, according to a Tuesday report by Ken Klippenstein of the Intercept.

Vermont bans a high school from athletics for objecting to boys in girls' sports

The rot of gender ideology continues to make its way through the sports world. Now, liberals are punishing high school athletes in the name of "gender affirmation."

Mid Vermont Christian, a high school in White River Junction, Vermont, is the latest target of leftist ire. The school's girls' basketball team forfeited a Division IV playoff game against Long Trail because Long Trail had a boy on its team. "We believe playing against an opponent with a biological male jeopardizes the fairness of the game and the safety of our players," MVCS Head of School Vicky Fogg said.

As I have said many times, I'm not in favor of the Democratic Party or the Republican Party. I seek out and support those who comprise the "Pragmatic Commonsense Party."

In my estimation, there are few groups who work harder, have more common sense, or offer up more pragmatic solutions than farmers, ranchers and truck drivers. Of late, some members of these groups have been waving "warning flags" of dangers to our society's functioning — and yet, most of our world "leaders" have turned a blind eye to their pleas, or worse, attempted to vilify those who speak out about problematic government policies.

For one example of such bullying tactics, cast your mind back to 2022, when more than 50,000 truckers drove across Canada toward that nation's capital of Ottawa to protest COVID vaccine mandates. These truckers soon were smeared by the liberal Canadian government and some media outlets. Some were arrested and some had their bank accounts frozen. All this because they wanted to keep working to provide for themselves and their families — but they questioned the legality of vaccine mandates.

He made the joke during the annual "Friends of Ireland" luncheon at the U.S. Capitol. House Speaker Kevin McCarthy, who's reportedly also Irish, was also in attendance.

President Joe Biden made what's been described as an "off-color joke" this Friday about how he's "really not Irish" because he doesn't drink and because his Irish relatives aren't all in jail.

"I've been to Ireland many times, but not to actually look up, to find my actual family members. And there are so many — and they actually weren't in jail," he said while describing a six-day visit during which he'd met his Irish relatives.

"There's still a place called Finnegan's Pub ... that's related to my family. I'm the only Irishman you ever met, though, that's never had a drink, so I'm OK. I'm really not Irish," he added.

Incitement? ‘Hanoi Jane’ can’t backpedal fast enough when ‘joke’ about murdering pro-lifers draws ire

Contributed by Ret. U.S. Army Col. John Meyers * Tribal Member Santa Rosa Band of Cahuilla Indians

If you welcome one of America’s most reviled anti-American activists onto one of the most divisive, low-IQ shows on television, odds are really good something stunningly stupid will be said.

And if one of the most vocal champions of the conservative “America First” movement happens to be watching, odds are even better the stunningly stupid statement won’t slip by unnoticed.

So, when “Hanoi Jane” Fonda went on ABC’s “The View” and seemed to suggest that, in light of the overturning of Roe v. Wade, pro-abortion activists should put down their protest placards and just start murdering pro-life politicians, it really wasn’t surprising that

Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene (R-Ga.) had some thoughts on the matter.

Fonda and comedian Lily Tomlin joined the ladies of “The View” on Friday to push their new movie, “Moving On,” and the conversation naturally turned to liberal politics, replete with virtuous outrage.

“We’re not going back,” Fonda declared, referring to the Supreme Court’s recognition of the Constitutional right granted to the states to regulate abortion. “I don’t care what the laws are. We’re not going back.”

And, like barking seals, the audience burst into applause, because who cares about the law when you’re a liberal celebrity?

Why closing prisons will open a new path toward a safer California

When a crime occurs it’s too late. Someone has been harmed and a victim’s sense of safety has been shattered. Historically, our nation’s preferred “solution” to this kind of harm has been to search for and punish the perpetrator, usually by imposing a prison sentence. In recent years, however, there has been increasing recognition that there are more effective ways to protect public safety.

These new approaches both hold the perpetrators of crime accountable—which no one denies is important—while also addressing the root causes of crime to ensure that there are fewer victims in the future.

With the number of persons incarcerated in our state prisons having fallen from a high of 165,000 people in 2006 to 95,000 people behind bars today, California has a generational opportunity to reconfigure our system of justice to focus on prevention rather than punishment. That’s why Governor Newsom’s move to close multiple California prisons is a smart and necessary evolution in the state’s approach to public safety.

... Gov. Newsom has created an opportunity for California to begin its long-awaited journey towards a system of justice rooted in prevention rather than punishment. We will all be safer as a result.

MY VIEW Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.,

Call me, I still have that big bridge for sale. Imagine if you will, California closing all their Prisons and All Criminals will Stop Committing CRIMES. Welcome to the “California Woke Twilight Zone.” Please don’t laughing because you might offend them and they don’t allow criticism.

Yes, these are the same folks that have declared that biological men can have babies and must be allowed to participate in girls and women’s sports. Forget the biological science that proves otherwise and that boys and men are stronger than girls and women.

We even have a Woke supreme court Justice that refused answer a question of her definition of a woman, her answer was that she was not a biologist and couldn’t answer. Yet, she was confirmed to serve on the supreme court of the United States of America.

This is absolutely insane, but what is more insane is that they are getting away with it. Another “Woke Twilight Zone” fable.

Back to the Prison Free, Crime Free State of California. With 70,000 less folks in California prisons a small number can most likely be attributed to the decrease in the population in the state and maybe the rest of them can be credited with the early release from prison program and the lack of prosecuting many of the criminals offenders which could be attributed to the increase in the crime rate in the state, you think.

But, you gotta read the article if for no other reason than to try to understand how these folks brain process’ data with the absents of logic or reality.

California: Governor Sign SB-145 into Law 1st Step in Legalizing Pedophile

My View: Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.

In my most humble opinion, the Pedophiles Bill SB-145 is the sickest and most disgusting legislation ever passed by any legislative body.

As always with the liberal left the legislation is masked as protections against discrimination for the gay community, which is totally bogus.

In reality it allow for pedophiles to have open season on children. Can you imagine a 10-year old legally consenting to sexually abused?

Pedophiles will be allowed to sexually abuse, manipulate and exploit children at will.

The California Legislators seems to be more concerned about protecting the gay community against discrimination than endangerment of children from sexual predators.

This legislation must be repealed by the people of California It need to be placed on a statewide ballot with out the Attorney Generals tricky language like he used to get the hideous gas tax passed or the current Prop 14 which has over 19 pages in summery.

Honesty and transparency don’t appear to be one of the liberals strong points.

In my 8-decades on this earth I have never participated in an active petition drive to get a legislative action on a ballot for a recall, but SB-145 is pure lunacy, folly and insanity to say the least and I’m ready to sit in front of a market or where ever to get the signatures need to bring about the recall of this absurdity. Our children, grand children our values are under siege.

Should Biological Men Compete in Women’s Sports?

This should never be allowed to happen. Boy’s are boy’s and girl’s are girl’s, PERIOD!!! God made only two genders, if you can’t live with that, you may have a mental problem.

Barriers to Native American gun purchases lowered in bipartisan House bill

Story by Elizabeth Elkind * Contributed by Andrea Marquez, Soboba Rez.

FIRST ON FOX: Native Americans living on tribal land would have an easier time buying firearms under a new bipartisan bill introduced in the House on Wednesday.

Small Business Caucus Chairman Rep. Dusty Johnson, R-S.D., is reviving his effort from the previous Congress to expand the language on identification requirements for gun purchases. Under current regulations, tribal IDs are not recognized as a permissible form of identification for those purchases, even though they include most of the same information as a DMV-issued driver's license.

Johnson and Rep. Mary Peltola, D-Alaska, the first Alaskan Native elected to Congress, are jointly sponsoring the legislation.

Johnson told Fox News Digital that while even non-U.S. passports are allowed to be used as valid identification to buy a firearm, IDs used by people living in areas designated by the Federally Recognized 19 Indian Tribe List Act of 1994 are not.

Nana and Raya are off to do 16 hours of Car Extraction training this weekend. At 13 and 15, they are doing the same thing I was doing at their age in the Beaumont Fire Explorer program... Children learn the most by doing dangerous things carefully. I really appreciate Soboba Fire Department for teaching our children these important life lessons and providing a safe environment to learn those lessons.

Nana and Raya Salgado are tribal members of the Soboba Band of Luiseno Indians.

They are actively involved in many educational, cultural and leadership activities in school and within the Tribal community, on and off the Reservation. Both have testified before the California Legislator in support of American Indian Education legislation. To say that leadership is in their DNA would be an understatement. "Don't be afraid to follow your dreams."

Less than a year after recording artist Aysanabee released his first album, Northern Cree and Aysanabee played at the Juno Awards, the largest stage Canada has to offer.

"Northern Cree family is very happy to be here representing Treaty 6 territory on Treaty 6 territory," said Joel Wood, a four-time Juno- and Grammy-nominated Cree artist from Maskwacis, Alta.

Evan Pang, better known as Aysanabee, was working for CTV News before he traded in his reporter's notebook for the recording studio.

The first song the groups played started with a hologram projecting the testimony of his grandfather about growing up in McIntosh Residential School in north-western Ontario.

"I made the album as a way to remember my grandfather and his stories," Aysanabee told reporters after his performance on Monday night.

The Oji-Cree, who is Sucker Clan from Sandy Lake First Nation north of Thunder Bay, released an album in November 2022. From then his rise to fame has been meteoric.

Richard Dawkins declares there are only two sexes as matter of science: 'That's all there is to it'

RICHARD DAWKINS UNCENSORED

During a recent interview with British journalist Piers Morgan, famed atheist and biologist Richard Dawkins declared, "there are two sexes, and that's all there is to it."

He added that LGBTQ activists looking to discredit the reality of two biological sexes are pushing "utter nonsense."

Dawkins further noted that those going after Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling for her commitment to the reality of two sexes are "bullies."

The famous critic of religion spoke with Morgan during a recent episode of "Piers Morgan Uncensored." The host prompted Hawkins by mentioning how "extraordinary" it is that LGBTQ activists and woke ideologues "want to what they call, de-gender and neutralize language."

Piers was referring to a recent list of problematic words put out by the "EBB Language Project," a collection of academics looking to police words that could potentially be found to be politically incorrect. The proposed list contained gendered words, such as "male, female, man, woman, mother, father," U.K. outlet The Telegraph reported.

During their interview, Morgan trashed such language policing and the idea there aren't two sexes, He declared, "I mean, it's incontrovertible. There's no scientific doubt about this." He also noted that a "small group of people have been quite successful actually in reshaping vast swathes of the way society talks and is allowed to talk."

‘I hope DOJ reconsiders’: FBI personnel blindsided by Attorney General Garland’s memo targeting parents

MY VIEW Ernie C. Salgado, Jr.

Did the fact that his son-in-law was the national distributor of the critical race theory influence his decision?

Attorney General Merrick Garland’s October 2021 directive for the FBI to "use its authority" on parents who protested at school board meetings blindsided the government agency’s personnel, according to a Thursday report.

Following Garland’s directive, Assistant Director of the FBI Counterterrorism Division Tim Lagan notified his colleagues that he was working to "track down additional information" regarding the memo, according to documents obtained through a Freedom of Information Act request by America First Legal (AFL), a law firm that focuses on liberty principles. On Tuesday, House Republicans’ found that Garland had "no legitimate basis" to direct the FBI to "use its authority" on parents who protested at school board meetings.

"We have known all along that the timeline at issue - a letter to the President followed by an Attorney General memorandum within days Government and the House Judiciary Committee this week confirms our assertions about the Attorney General’s memorandum. And now, the records we are revealing today further show that the memo blindsided the FBI. Stay tuned for more details as we continue our vital work."
